Yes! You Can Adopt
Usually in 3-12 Months

Issue 1

AIS is proud to have helped place more than 2,000 newborns with loving parents.

How Long Does It Take to Adopt a Newborn in the United States?

The answer depends on who you ask and their experience. Three to ten years is the general estimate and, yes, this is true if you go through the public system or some traditional private agencies.

However, most AIS clients successfully adopt a newborn in less than twelve months. Part of our clients' success is due to AIS' long-term relationships with nationwide agencies and adoption attorneys who have proven that they place in a short period of time.

Our system helps ease the process by walking clients through the family presentations, which are used by the birthparent(s) to choose the family for their child. With our guidance, AIS client presentations are generally superior in quality and content to most presentations.

Why AIS? We Work for You!

It's Fast. Approximately seventy-five percent of AIS clients adopt a newborn in less than 12 months from the date of home study approval. There is no waiting to get on a list. You are immediately placed into the pool of applicants.

It's Safe. There is no time for birthparents to change their minds after signing consents. In many states there is a 10-day to 12-month period where a birthparent can revoke consent after the baby is in your home. AIS works in states where the birthparents cannot revoke consent after signing.

More Choices. AIS offers nationwide possibilities. Your plan is not limited to the state where you reside.

Insider's View. We tell you what's behind the marketing packages of adoption agencies and whom you can trust.

Direction & Guidance. AIS guides you from start to finish through your adoption process from selecting your agency, completing a home study, evaluating potential birthmother situations, preparing a "lifestyle presentation" (profile), meeting a birthmother, receiving your child, and finalizing the adoption.

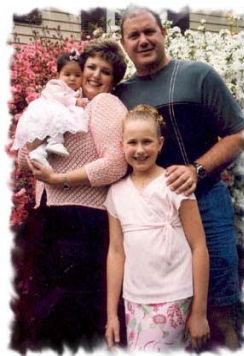

Friendly, Understanding & Responsive. We've been where you are and we understand. Our staff has experienced both the pain of infertility and the joy of adoption. We are your advocates and we work for you.

Exposure. Our networking and contacts with adoption agencies and attorneys throughout the United States provide you more possible scenarios to consider.

Multiple Agency/Attorney Sources Ensure Quick Placement

Most AIS clients are shown four to six adoption agency/attorney placement sources that fit their particular situation. For some clients one agency is sufficient, but for most signing up with two or three agencies increases their chances of success. Not placing all of your eggs in one basket usually ensures a successful adoption within six to 18 months.

"We want to thank you for being our friend and advocate through a process that at times seemed endless and impossible."
